THE NEW CITY GOVERNMENT

Having in previous issues performed the duty of rendering just credit to the outgoing City Government, for its administration of public affairs during the past year, we now extend greeting to the new City Government installed yesterday, and wish the administration of the coming year a liberal measure of success in promoting the public welfare.

We publish elsewhere the full text of Mayor Hamlin's Inaugural Address, which is conceived in excellent spirit and discusses our public affairs with candor and discretion. The Mayor pays a tribute equally generous and just to the citizens associated with him in the Government for the past year, and heartily confirms our award of credit for the courage which called directly upon the people for money to pay floating indebtedness, for the economy which has largely reduced expenditure and left a handsome balance in the treasury, and for the efficiency with which the public interests has been cared for. Every citizen who can read the official reports, and is capable of forming intelligent judgment thereon, will fully indorse the encomiums pronounced by the Mayor, and applaud him for thus giving honor to whom honor is due.

Approaching the duties of the future, the Mayor speaks with commendable conservatism, and urges judicious consideration of duties, as they arise, rather than indulgence in visionary theories, or the sacrificing of the real interests of the community in a reckless zeal for reputation as economists. The people demand wise economy and will approve all considerate measures for its attainment, but the citizens invested with the powers and responsibilities of municipal government have intrusted to their hands other and even more important interests than those computed in dollars and cents in the Treasury report—the preservation of order, the protection of life and property, the proper education of the young, the care of the destitute, and the maintenance of the public facilities, upon which the business prosperity of the city so much depends.

Any reckless assaults upon the established and necessary institutions of the community must prove damaging to the public interests and ultimately result in large additional cost to repair the effects of demoralization. What the people want is true economy. They understand that the maintenance of those provisions for public safety, health and convenience which enable them to pursue their avocations, enjoy the peace of their homes and educate their children, involves expenditure of money which they must contribute, and what they wish is that intelligence and discretion shall be used in stopping every waste and in saving wherever it can be done without detriment to the public interest. The people who pay the taxes of Bangor are not like the wild rabble who followed Jack Cade, although a great deal of the demagogism that has appeared in the Democratic organ here of late has a strong resemblance to the following pronunciamento which Shakespeare puts in the mouth of that liberal political economist:

> CADE. Be sure thou, for your captain I prayre, and your reformation. There shall be in Englande seven half-penny loaves sold for a penny: the three hoopen pot shall have ten hoops; and I will make it felony to drynk small beer. All the realme shall be in common, and in Cheapside my mantle shall be made my throne, for I shall sitte there, and rule the realme. And Henry the King I will be—
> ALL. Long live your majesty!
> CADE. I thank you, good people—there shall be no money; all shall eat and drink on my score, and I will apparel them all in one livery, that they may agree like brothers, and worship me their lord.

That sort of stuff was better suited to the times of Henry VI., than to the present day in an intelligent New England community. The Mayor, in his address, does not confound blatherskite with reform, or communism with the public welfare; and the new City Government embraces citizens of character and ability, who will not be led into any reckless action by clamor raised largely by a political opposition for partisan effect.

With reference to the Ward lines, if the City Government shall become convinced that it is their duty to take action on the subject, no one will complain at any decision which can be shown to be based upon justice and a full consideration of the rights and interests of all the people. It is to be remembered, however, that the outcry on this subject has proceeded from a political party whose leaders are enraged solely because they failed to secure the adoption of a plan concocted in their own interest, to carry which they had been systematically colonizing certain wards to gain control. The City Government will undoubtedly be placed on guard by the open boasting of anticipated Democratic ascendancy in this city, and by the well-known fact that Democratic activity at the late election was mainly stimulated by the hope of influencing or controlling such a revision of the lines as would answer their purposes. No change should be made unless it is plainly demonstrated that the present apportionment is unjust, and if any changes are made, care should be taken that the rights and interests of the community, rather than the schemes of partisan leaders, control the result.

We welcome the new administration to the duties of the current year, and hope that its deliberations may be governed by wisdom, and its management of the public affairs such as to merit the commendation of the people.

A DEMOCRATIC REBUKE TO BANNING.

The St. Louis Republican, which notwithstanding its name is a strongly Democratic paper, has sense enough to perceive that the loyal sentiment of the country may be goaded too recklessly, and it admonishes the following rebuke to the "Bounding" Banning and other demagogues who are trying to harrass and destroy the United States Army:

> There are certain politicians in Congress who seem to think that the people, irrespective of party, are bitterly hostile to the army, and will approve any measures which tend to cripple and destroy it. The people have no such feelings. They recognize the imperative necessity of our National police, and want nothing done to lessen its present efficiency. Mr. Banning and his friends may rest assured that the popular eye is on them, and that their party use prejudice and demagoguing misrepresentations will not elevate them in popular estimation. Should they succeed in seriously damaging the army the people will visit them with appropriate punishment, but we believe there are enough sensible men in Congress to defeat any bill which promises such a result.

The announcement is made in behalf of the President, that he did not say, as reported, that he found the Republican party dead, and is trying to resuscitate it. Now will some competent authority be so obliging as to inform us what he is trying to do with it?—N. Y. Tribune.

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS POLICY.

[From the Keokuk (Iowa) Gate City, March 7.]

We have very definitely made up our mind about Hayes's motive as President, and what he may be expected to do, and what not. We may be in error in our opinion, but it is the one forced upon us by all the evidence now before us. If we are right, it clears up the party vision, and Republicans will quit worrying in the confusion of uncertainties and know what to expect and what to do. We found at Washington the same perplexity existing on all hands and in the best-informed political circles as to what Hayes is doing and what he means to do that exists throughout the country. While we found the most varying interpretation put upon his conduct, we found no one who, as we believe, penetrated his motive as we believe that motive to be. If we have not, we are mistaken; if we have, we are sorry with reason enough.

Let us combine some points aiding conclusion: In one of our letters we referred to the substantial statement of an eminent Republican at Washington, to us that Hayes talks in a way perfectly satisfactory to thousands of Republicans, but is constantly disappointing when it comes to putting his words in practice. Hayes talks soundly Republican, and so, seeing what we feel to be the difference between what he says and what he does, Republicans in Washington, like Hannibal Hamlin, for instance, say openly and indignantly that Hayes has lied to them; he has talked one way and does another. And because of this Hamlin, for example, says he will never cross the door of the White House. Now, with all their different constructions of Hayes's policy, and their different degrees of patience with it, Republicans throughout the country are acting together in perfect good feeling, harmony, and concert. The President talks soundly Republican. The Republicans in Congress want to be in harmony with the President. The Cabinet is earnestly anxious that the Administration should be in harmony with Republicans, in Congress and out. The reasons for harmony are so strong that they hold all Republicans together throughout the country to-day, and it is an enigma why there is not perfect accord between the President and all Republicans. It would seem to be easier for it to be so than not to be so.

Republicans are in no exacting mood as to Hayes. Why is there not perfect peace and harmony! The answer is that Hayes has made up his mind that harmony may cost him the last two years of his Presidency, and that he cannot afford to pay that price. The prevalent opinion in Washington is that Mr. Hayes' is a very weak man, and that he doesn't do the things that would make him strong because he is deficient in capacity. Mr. Hayes is not a great man; he is not a vigorous thinker; he has put no wrinkles on his brow by study, but he is shrewder than his judgment makes him. There never was a more sagacious Presidential candidate than he was. He won in Ohio, politics by practical sagacity. He is really a man of good deal of political adroitness and tact. It should also be remembered that he is not committed to his conciliation policy like Sumner, because of its being either a conclusion of statesmanship or a conviction of philanthropy.

When Mr. Hayes thought he was likely to lose the Presidency, he uttered quickly enough the fulminations and the sympathy for "the poor blacks," that he thought would "fire the heart" of the Republicans of the country to hold the offices for him. Again we found that a Southern policy was quite well agreed upon by leading Republicans at Washington just before Hayes took his seat. Hayes agreed, as Grant saw, that the "bayonet policy" was at an end. The troops were to be withdrawn, the South was to have what for want of a better name is called local self-government, and the South was not to prosecute, as it did with Longstreet, and Orr, and Ames, and Johnson, under Grant, the Southern men who came up and supported a Republican Administration, but the South was to reverse this and freely support a Republican Government.

The Republican leaders at Washington say that for some hidden and unguessed reason Hayes surrendered the Republican part of this programme as soon as he was inaugurated. There is a constant undercurrent of talk in well-informed circles in Washington that if the Democrats control the next House and Senate they will oust Hayes from office. Mr. Hayes seems to us to talk like a man who has a motive for his "policy" so called back of any of the stereotyped reasons he gives when discussing it with his friends or the general public. And we have little doubt that he has made up his mind fully as to the danger if at the Democracy may turn him out of office, and that he proposes in his own way to manage the case for himself. If the Republicans control Congress it is easy enough to appease them. He does not much calculate on that, and he is shaping his course to deal with a Congress Democratic in both branches. The chief pressure to oust him will be from Northern Democrats—from men like S. S. Cox, and Eaton of Connecticut.

The Democratic strength Hayes expects to beat them with is the South. He expects that his Republicanism will keep him the confidence and support of such Republicans as Sherman and Thompson and McCrary. That this backing, added to his conciliatory course in the South, and its fear of the strength of a solid Republican North and weariness of political strife, will make the Democratic South beat any Democratic programme to unseat him. If this is his motive, none of the thorough Republican members of his Cabinet at least seemed to have guessed it. When a case like the Louisiana Returning Board prosecution comes up, Republicans in the Cabinet like Sherman and McCrary and Thompson, and Hale and Garfield in Congress, get their Republican temper up and wonder why Hayes doesn't do or say something decisive. Packard is poor, honest, fearless, moderate, with a large and helpless family, and would make a good Collector of New Orleans. Every Republican in Congress signs a request for his appointment, and wonders, if Hayes wants to show that he is a Republican as he says he is, why he doesn't give Packard this place. Everybody might as well quit questioning and worrying. Hayes is not going to make an appointment or do an act in the South that he thinks may inflame the Southern Democrats, and make them join Northern Democrats in the crusade to unseat him in 1879.

In writing this way we have no purpose of putting the President at a disadvantage in public thought, or of impugning his motives. It is easy for men who hold high office to persuade themselves that what serves their ends serves also great and public ends. This has been the case from Cæsar to Pepin, and from Cromwell to Napoleon III. Smaller men may share the sentiment and the motive. It may be that the country will conclude that the best service Mr. Hayes can do himself, Republicanism, and the country is to guard his own life. We are not discussing that now, or passing an opinion upon it, although we have a very decided opinion in the premises. But the subject has a somewhat momentous importance so far as the Republican party is concerned. At the outset of his administration, the great mass of Republicans demanded—and grew indignantly impatient at delay—that the President should take the place of Lincoln and Grant and give a positive Republican policy to the country.

We and others, more patient, have made excuses, and have been willing to wait for "the more convenient season" to come to our relief. But whatever our degree of Republican patience, none of us have much doubted that at some early hour Hayes would rally all the Republicans in hoc signo, and give the party a positive word and policy by which it should conquer. We write now because we are profoundly convinced that so far it is Hayes' purpose to disappoint all of us on that score. So far and at present it is his purpose merely to guard his seat, and in doing this to do and say nothing that will offend the Southern Democracy. If he sticks to this motive the party must make up its mind that no sign or word of leadership is to come from him. If this is so, the quicker the party knows it and makes up its mind to it, the better. There must be no more disheartening and wrangling waiting for Hayes to make a policy for it; the party must make its own.

We yesterday gave the first of Gail Hamilton's papers in review of Mr. Dorman B. Eaton's reform rodomontade in the February Atlantic, and shall as promptly as possible present the succeeding chapters which are even more incisive and damaging to that worthy gentleman than the opening article. Meanwhile we copy the following editorial remarks of the New York Tribune upon the lively correspondence:

> Hitherto, Gail Hamilton has been skirmishing around Mr. Dorman B. Eaton, but to-day she comes to close quarters, and wields the stinging knife to some purpose. We protest that the performance is cruel, but confess that it is amusing. When she ingeniously explains that the trouble with Mr. Eaton is that he does not definitely know what he is talking about, or what he is driving at, and when she wickedly sets out to prove it by cheap and popular quotations—when she suggests that the trouble with Mr. Eaton's cities of corruption is that they are found out on the old woman's shuddering principle, "When you have taken away my total depravity, you have taken all the comfort out of my religion"—when she holds up Mr. Eaton's scorn for party, party leadership and party support, by the side of his boasts that the Fifth Avenue Conference came near forming a party;—when she concludes that Mr. Eaton's objection is not to partisanship, but to partisanship that is not on his side, and his objection to party leaders is that he is not one of them—she at least makes points which seem to the disinterested entirely fair and very hard to answer. The trouble is, that the best of our public servants, who devote themselves to the Cause of Reform are in great danger of falling into cant, and there is nothing more fatal to violent suspicion that their worst antagonists.

The article on "The President and his Policy" which we publish to-day represents the conclusions of the editor of a leading Republican paper in Iowa that has hitherto supported him. The editor has visited Washington, seen for himself, and arrived at the opinions that he gives in his paper. His reference to a "Southern Policy" agreed on by "leading Republicans" can only apply to the bargain engineered at Wormley's, and in speaking of Gen. Grant's action he might to have stated that it was governed by the importunities of the confidents of the in-coming President.

Governor Bishop, of Ohio, like all truly great and successful men, is surrounded by enemies. A member of the Legislature, and what makes the act more atrocious, a Democrat, has introduced a bill making it a penitentiary offence for any person connected with State institutions to buy supplies of a firm of which the Governor, or any other State officer, may be a member. This is a glaring attempt to undermine the wholesale grocery business of the firm of R. M. Bishop & Co.

The effects of COSTIVENESS

When long continued are pains in the head, dizziness, nausea or sickness at the stomach, general weariness in the morning, constipation, congestion of the liver, and hence an impeded circulation of the blood, colds, and especially the

PILES.

The grand therapeutic agent for Dyspepsia is debility of the stomach. The torpidity of the liver is apparent from the small quantity of bile discharged from that organ, and the body and mind feel the dull pain on the right side. Under whichever form

DYSPEPSIA

Appears here it always languors or deliries exertion fatigues, the pulse is weak, the skin disturbed, it is extremes hot or cold, the tongue has the most part furred or covered with a grayish substance in the morning. No person with a constipated bowel or bilious habit of the bowels continues sound healthy.

It is evident, that some gentle laxative, slightly stimulant to the mucous membrane of the intestines, free of with a tonic, that increases the secretions of the liver and gradually strengthening the stomach, must be a reasonable combination and reach the case. These two combination will do; for proof of which we are happy to be able to refer those who have been disappointed, by the many valuable pay-liners, who have long used it, to nearly in their pockets; and also to every apothecary by whom Dr. Parsalide's Lozenges are sold.

These Lozenges will repair the mischief caused by the excessive use of those "Fatal Pills," with which the country has been flooded.

They are so agreeable to the taste, and convenient in form, that children eat them readily after repeating the usual nauseous nostrums. In these symptoms supposed to indicate the presence of Worms, they are a sure remedy.

They are 30 cents per box. For sale by druggists, or by mail on receipt of price in P. O. stamps for remedy.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

LOUISIANA.

The Anderson Case.

THE OPINION OF CHIEF JUSTICE MANNING.

THE VERDICT SET ASIDE.

The Prisoner Discharged.

NEW ORLEANS, March 18. The Supreme Court room this forenoon was crowded with persons anxious to hear the decision in the case of the State vs. Thomas C. Anderson, convicted in the Superior Criminal court, for publishing as true forged and counterfeited election returns from the Parish of Vernon.

Chief Justice Manning read a very lengthy opinion in the case, and after reviewing the charge, verdict and sentence of the court, he took up two of the exceptions as being the only ones necessary to consider in rendering a judgment. They were that there had been no preliminary examination and that it is not a practice to prosecute by information. Both exceptions were discussed. The first upon the ground that a preliminary examination is not essential, and the second because the prosecution by information has been a common rule in criminal prosecutions for many years.

The exception to drawing the jury is also dismissed on ground that the violation of the spirit of the law is not presented relative to the offense itself. The Court gave an abstract of the election law, detailing its requirements. The exact method prescribed in the law was fully described. The record offered in evidence did not conform with that mentioned in the information. The document next offered was the "consolidated statement" certified by the register of voters and not the "original returns." The statute of our State does not attach much value to the "consolidated statement." The original returns not being altered would not change the result of the election and interfere with the interests of the people.

The paper offered in evidence as that the paper charged as being forged. In order to be a forgery, that which it is alleged is falsified must, if true, be legally capable of committing a fraud. No where in the law is a consolidated return required, as a definitive of the result, nor its alteration or modification and in no way affect an election. Its consolidated return were forged and the Returning Board complied with the law and made their statement from the Commissioners returns no injury could result. It does not appear that any paper had been forged. Also, to calculate, with a compliance with the law, to change the result. It is the essence of the crime that it should be committed by a public officer, and on a document which would change the result of the election. This was not done.

The letter of John Sherman, Stanley Matthews and others which appeared in the Record, was alluded to by the Chief Justice, who stated that it should be treated by the public in a like manner as that of a member of the House of Commons, who attempted to influence the decision of the Court in the Tichbourne case. It was overlooked the verdict of the jury be set aside and reversed and the prisoner discharged from custody.

Later.

The decision of the Supreme court, today virtually ends the prosecution against members of the Returning Board. The order of the court, however, ordering the discharge of General Anderson, does not release him at once, the State having five days in which to file an application for a rehearing.

FORTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.—Second Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18.

Senator Edmunds from the Judiciary Committee reported adversely on the House bill providing for admission of women to practice in the Supreme Court of the United States, and moved it be indefinitely postponed. Mr. Edmunds said the ground of an adverse report was that by the Law of the land as it had existed since the organization of the Government, the Supreme Court as well as all other United States Courts, were authorized to make their own rules touching the admission of Attorneys so that there was no obstacle in law prohibiting admission of women to practice in the United States Courts. It depends entirely upon the discretion of the court.

The Judiciary Committee thought that it would make discrimination in favor of women if compelled the Courts to admit women to practice when it was not so with men. The Bill was placed on the Calendar with the adverse report. Edmunds in response to an enquiry from McCreary said the Judiciary Committee would soon report on the bill repealing the Bankruptcy law.

The fortification appropriation bill then passed. It appropriates $275,000 for fortifications, armaments and torpedoes.

The bill prohibiting members of Congress from becoming sureties on certain bonds was passed.

The President announced his signature to the bill in aid of the Polar expedition, designed by Jas. G. Bennett, Esq.

The House bill to authorize the granting of an American register to foreign built ships for the purposes of the Woodruff scientific expedition around the world, was called up and led to a lengthy discussion.

House.

Several petitions were presented and referred.

Mr. Vance introduced a bill providing for the payment of cer ain Southern mail contractors. It provides that no claim be paid which have heretofore been paid by the rebel government.

Mr. Springer moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill authorizing the coinage of silver on the same terms as gold, and also authorizing the issue of coin certificates on deposit of silver bullion, similar to those now authorized on the deposits of gold bullion. On a viva voce vote the yeas were in a decided minority, but before the vote could be taken two o'clock arrived and the House under the rule proceeded to the consideration of the business of the District of Columbia.

CONDENSED DEPARTURES.

The British ship N. & E. Gardner, Capt. Kenny, bound for Liverpool, was abandoned on the 14th instant. The crew were picked up and landed at Liverpool.

AN ASTONISHING FACT.

A large proportion of the American people are to-day dying from the effects of Dyspepsia or disorders of Liver. The results of these diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most appalling, making life actually a burden instead of a pleasant existence of happiness and usefulness as it ought to be. There is no good reason for this, if you will only throw aside prejudice and skeptic, take heed to the of Druggists, and your friends, and try one bottle of Green's August Flower. The new City Government will hold a informal meeting next Wednesday evening, for the purpose of talking over the business to come before them at the meeting on Thursday evening.

The Sociable which was to be held this evening in the Third Parish vestry has been postponed to the second Tuesday in April on account of the entertainment in the City Hall by the Seminary Quartette.

ENTERTAINMENT. There will be a musical and literary entertainment at City Hall this evening, under the auspices of the Seminary Quartette. Some of our best local talent will take part and a fine entertainment may be expected. Tickets can be obtained at Duren's and Bugbee's.

Yesterday morning a dog was found on a cake of ice in the Kenduskeag stream. The ice was caught on one of the wharves and with the aid of a rope some men succeeded in getting him out of his unpleasant position. How he came there is a mystery. But it is thought that he must have been on the ice all night, as he was heard barking at different times during the night.

MAY-FLOWERS. A pleasing contrast with the severe snow storm that raged yesterday, was a delicate and fragrant bouquet of May-Flowers, culled and sent to us by a young lady subscriber in Upper Stillwater, who for several years has sent us the earl est wild blossoms. Our floral contributor may or may not "know a bank whereon the wild thyme blows," but she evidently had found out the sunny spot where the sweet orbens first put forth its bloom.

THE STORM. The weather yesterday was decidedly an unpleasant change from that we have been enjoying, for the past few weeks. Snow began falling, at about six o'clock in the morning, and continued until late in the afternoon. The wind blowed quite hard at times and the snow being very damp, it was very disagreeable getting about. The storm also interfered with the working of the telegraph wires and it was found necessary to send men out both East and West of us to ascertain the trouble. The last of the afternoon the wires worked very much better. Some seven or eight inches of snow fell during the day.

BOARD OF TRADE. There was a very small attendance at the meeting of the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the President, after which the charter was read and accepted. Messrs. J. D. Warren, Nathan Hopkins and Gilman Cram, were then appointed port wardens. An order was also passed making the head quarters of the Board at the office of the Secretary, J. D. Warren. The balance of the afternoon was spent in discussing the Bankrupt Law, and the matter was finely laid on the table, without taking any action. At the close of the discussion the Board passes a vote of thanks to H. L. Mitchell and A. L. Simpson Esqs. for their information on the above question, and the meeting then adjourned for two weeks.

OBITUARY.

Eben Meigs Jr.

Mr. Alfred E. Meigs, of this paper reached the homestead in South China late Saturday evening, in time to be recognized by his father, who was then speechless and shortly after became much serious, in which state he continued until his death shortly after 1 o'clock monday morning.

Ebenezer Meigs, Jr., the deceased, was the only son of Ebenezer and Hannah Nelson Meigs, was born at Steward's Mills Vassalboro', December 16, 1813, and was the last survivor of the family, consisting of five sisters and himself. The family moved to South China when he was a mere lad, the place being then a wild forest where his father cleared and established a home. His boyhood was passed on the farm, and he attended the District schools and a few terms at China Academy, of which Mr. Paine was then principal. He established himself in trade with capital earned with his own hands at carriage making; but in the crash of 1837 the accumulations of his life were swept away, and under the pressure of these troubles he grew prematurely old. At the age of he married Elizabeth Garrill Bowler, daughter of Rev. William and Sarah Bowler, and a sister of James H. Bowler, Esq., of this city. His wife died in August, 1864, and in the fall of 1867 he married Mrs. Delia Burrill, who, with his two children, Mrs. Helen M. Cook and Alfred E. Meigs survive him. He was chosen a Representative to the Legislature on the Whig ticket in 1848, and for eleven years in succession elected Treasurer of the town, but refused to serve further in public office. In politics he has been since the outbreak of the War a radical and earnest Republican. He was a man of clear judgment, quick perception, just without harshness, affection and generous. As a man, a friend and neighbor he was held in high esteem, and as he goes to the grave lamented by all who knew him.

The funeral will take place at 10 A. M. Wednesday.

In about three weeks one hundred men will probably be employed by Contractor Patterson on the pipe-laying of the Lewiston Water Works. The work will be begun at two points—between Howard's Mill and the Lisbon road also near Mr. Dickey's and Son's shop. The trenches will be about seven feet in depth. The pipe which will be laid at the outset will be twenty inches in diameter, in sections twelve feet long, each weighing 3000 pounds. The work near Dickey's shop will be a ledge. There will also be a job of ledge on Cedar street. The main will pass out to lower Main street by Lincoln Block, thence down through Lincoln street and up Cedar. The main pipe starting from the upper level will cross the canal just below the Gate House on an iron suspension bridge. The pipe will be boxed and protected against frost. If the pipe is received in sufficient abundance additional gangs will be employed. Ordinary day laborers will be paid $1 a day.

Friday morning Officer Emerson's attention was called to Pat Sullivan's house in Portland. Black Pat, as he is generally called, had been beating his wife. When Hanson approached the door Friday, Sullivan threatened him with an axe, whereupon Hanson procured the assistance of Officer Miles, and when the two entered the house, Sullivan went for them. They persuaded him to lay down the axe however, and told him to go to his mother. His wife was a sight to behold. Sullivan also beat his wife's sister badly.

THIS ECONOMY is not in buying the lowest price articles. The best is cheapest. So with the fine cultivated and plantation grown spices imported by Messrs. Pinckney, Jackson & Co., of London and New York. I have just received a shipment of these goods and would specially invite the attention of all consumers to them. These spices are not only absolutely pure, but are without a doubt the finest ever imported into this country. I confidently recommend them as being really of unusual merit.

ST. NICHOLAS.

SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE FOR GIRLS AND BOYS.

The LONDON ACADEMY, of December 23d, 1877 says "ST. NICHOLAS we welcome the best among juvenile literature that we have yet seen. We know no publication in any tongue that both in the letter press and, in the pictures has a more wholesome and the high-no vein.

In ST. NICHOLAS for December, the Grand Christmas Number, was begun a charming new story,

Serial Story by Miss Alcott

"Under the Lilacs," illustrated by MARY TALBOT. Poetry, to continue during the year. This same Christmas number, of which one hundred thousand copies were printed, contained the opening chapters of the "ROBINSON CRUSOE" STORY for boys, "Tower-Mounts," by GUSTAVUS FRANKENSTEIN, also poems by LONGFELLOW and BRYANT, a portrait of Miss Alcott, half a dozen short stories, pictures, poems, etc., etc. It is the handsomest number of a child's magazine ever issued.

The NEW YORK TRIBUNE says:

"ST. NICHOLAS has a list of contributors such as no other child's magazine, or few publications of any sort, in the world can boast. It has caused the best writers in America to turn their attention to the task of giving delight and imparting culture to children. In the avalanche of immoral literature that threatens the children, some strong, vitally wholesome and really attractive magazine is required for them, and ST. NICHOLAS has reached a higher platform, and commands for it its serve be wider resources in art and letters, than any of its predecessors or contemporaries."

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1878,

Besides the SERIAL STORIES above announced, will have a short serial story by the author of The Schonberg-Cotta Family; and THREE SPLENDID SERIALS FOR BOYS, one of which "DRIFTED INTO PORT," by EDWIN HODDER, an English writer, will begin in March. "Around the world in a Yachtt, Boys!" has been promised by a brilliant writer, now on the actual tour of the world in his own yacht. There will be contributions by the Daughter of the famous Peter Parley, and a Letter to Young Americans by GEORGE MACDONALD.

The "HOW" Series of instructive papers, by various authors, will tell HOW to bind your own books; HOW they mine boulders; HOW to enjoy yourselves at home; HOW to be an agreeable guest; HOW to entertain company; HOW to be a competitor; HOW to make an ice-boat; HOW to build a house; How India rubber is gathered; HOW matches are made; HOW to be a Parlor Magician; HOW money is made; HOW mackerel are caught; HOW they laid the Atlantic cable; HOW they mine in California; HOW they work in the tea-country; etc. There will be also a series of stories and sketches of Fore ga Life, such as "Old Nicolas" (a Russian story), "A Day among the Welsh Castles," "Easter in Germany," The Indians of the Amazon," "How Kitty was lost in a Turkish Bazaar," "Master Montezuma" (a Mexican story), "Hansa, the Lapp Maiden," and many others.

TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE,

"Jack-in-the-Pulpit," "Young contributors' Department," "Letter-Box," "Riddle Box" and "For Very Little Folks," will be continued.
